My music is my decompression valve, my place where my imagination and my values are expressed without inhibition, this frees me from the world and intrinsically binds me to it.

I vibrate for the organic, the tribal, the breath of the bass and bewitching atmospheres.

Barefoot in the sand, when the tribe is set in motion, everything is love.

Biographie

I bled over my guitar from a very young age trying to imitate my idols. Little by little my voice began to emerge. Under the pseudonym la6gal (la cigale) I composed reggae, rock, and trip-hop songs and then with some friends, I joined the Skeud Diffusion Project.

My electronic music revelation happened in 2010 after experiencing magical moments at music festivals. This is when I created the Unjam Emery duo with my childhood friend Jeremy Calame to produce organic and melodic deep-house.

Today I produce music during my long and distant travels in my RV at sunrise while looking out over valleys, mountains, the ocean, or a desert under the name Hofmann (CH).

As a fan of the organic, melodic, and tribal House genre, I draw inspiration from nature's elements such as the sunrise, wind, and fire. The main goal is to create an atmosphere where people can dance together and feel the unity of the vibrations, which in turn elevates their emotions. By connecting people through electronic music, I aim to share unforgettable experiences.
